Happy Spring Recess & Holidays!

After a cold and snowy winter, we have just completed the first full week of spring and are sending this newsletter out just as we begin our spring recess. Reminder: there is no school March 29 - April 2!

Whether you celebrate Passover or Easter, both or neither, whether you're staying close to home or visiting someplace new, whether you take a stroll around one of Long Island's beautiful outdoor spaces like Sands Point Preserve (pictured and click to learn more) or tend to your own garden, we wish you a happy and safe holiday week filled with a sense of renewal and rejuvenation. Happy Spring!

Women's History Month: Leandra McNair

We hope you enjoyed celebrating Women's History month through this series highlighting some of our LIHSA alums as much as we have. For this final piece this month, we spotlight Leandra McNair.

Leandra McNair is a R&B/Soul artist from New York. Leandra's music has been described as contemporary alternative soul with strong hip hop influences and a distinct jazz background. Leandra McNair's voice has been described as unique and incredibly effortless.

Leandra studied vocal performance at the prestegious Berklee College of Music. In 2015 Leandra had the honor of singing backup vocals for the legendary Debbie Sledge at the Standard Jazz club in Copenhagen. At the same time she performed her own show called The Late Night Soul Sessions with Ken Linh Doky. Later that year she was invited back to perform her own show at the Standard for a Nat King Cole Tribute with the legends Alvin Queen and Neils Lan Doky. Leandra's enjoyed a successful concert career, including taking part in the world famous Copenhagen Jazz Festival.

Leandra continues to release her original music and looks forward to performing live again very soon. Her latest EP "A Rose In Black" is currently available across all streaming platforms. Visit her website to hear her music and learn more leandramcnair.com

Spotlight On: Faculty Member Erik Chocianowski

Thanks to his broad and unique background, Erik Chocianowski teaches classes in two of LIHSA's CTE Programs: both Visual & Media Arts as well as Production & Managerial Arts.

With a Bachelors in Industrial Design and Masters in Learning and Emerging Technology, he is well known at LIHSA for being an out-of-the-box thinker, creator and problem solver.

Read more about Erik, his background, and a look inside some of his classes in this week's blog.

Thank you to our teachers and staff who made last Saturday's LIVE Open House such a success. Special thanks to our Honor Society Students who supported the event and giving tours.

Each classroom gave attendees an opportunity to experience LIHSA's programs and disciplines. Pictured above is Dr. Dale Stuckenbruck in his classroom where he setup four computers in Logic and had them play simultaneous loops together. One computer was doing beat loops, another a Chinese violin (erhu), another a boys' choir, and the last one was a vintage synthesizer sound. In addition, he brought in a theremin (the only such instrument that is played without anyone touching it) and had the students play it as another beat sound to use in the room in an improvised way. This spatial design of computers is something students can only experience in a room with multiple computers. One could walk from one computer to another and feel how the sound changes according to one's proximity to the source.

Take a moment to listen to the extraordinary music of Dr. Stuckenbruck performing a Bellini excerpt on musical saw.

Artistic Residencies Continue: Joseph Baker

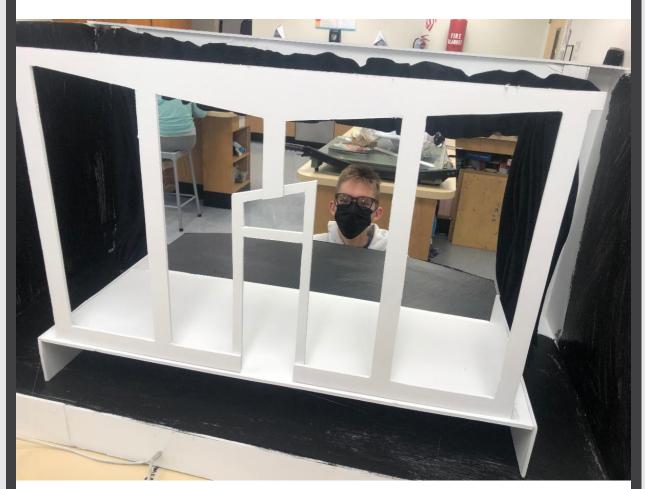

We were excited to welcome back Joseph Baker into our Creativity and Collaboration class.

In the Classroom: Creative Drama

Our creative drama students worked this week on a technique called the Rashomon effect, which is a term related to the notorious unreliability of eyewitnesses. They played a scene from different points of view and needed to quickly access their characters and make choices to assist their scene partners. This was improvised and inspired by suggestions from the audience. Thank you to Erik Chocianowski for sharing these photos that so beautifully showcase our students' work.

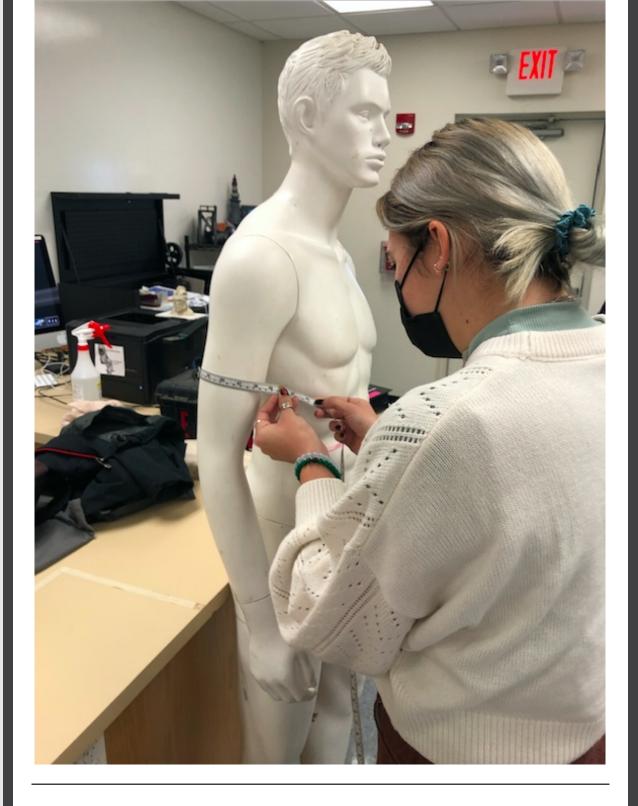

Congratulations Mark Cocheo!

Congratulations to Performing Arts Faculty Member Mark Cocheo & his wife, Tara, on the birth of their daughter Mila Rose!

Long Island Regional Virtual Student Forum

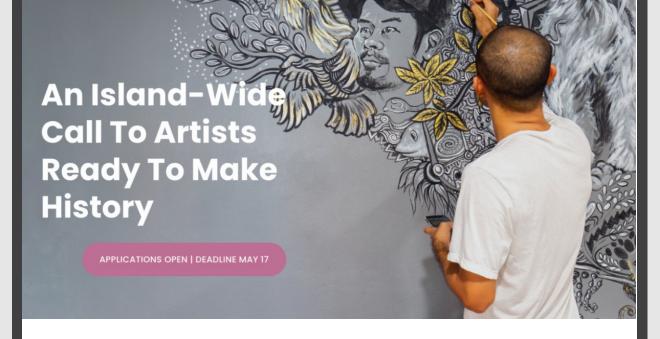

This week LIHSA Students Annabelle Lessser and Shaakirah Nazim Harris as well as Staff members Erica Giglio Pac and Melissa Stencel attended the Long Island Regional Virtual Student Forum. This forum, organized by all three Long Island BOCES: Nassau BOCES, Eastern Suffolk and Western Suffolk, brings together educators and students from across the region via Zoom to discuss their thoughts on the pandemic, hybrid and remote learning, and issues related to social justice.

Calling Artists: Poster Competition

LIAA (Long Island Arts Alliance) has joined a coalition of artists, arts councils and community leaders, to organize a poster competition in an effort to raise confidence in the COVID-19 Vaccine - with a focus on resonant works that engage diverse ethnic, cultural, and Black, Indigenous and People of Color (BIPOC) communities.

Final selections will be presented in communities across Long Island in a COVID-19 vaccine confidence/awareness campaign.

Submission Deadline: May 17, 2021

Transgender Day of Visibility: March 31

As we approach Transgender Day of Visibility on March 31, we will take this opportunity to restate that LIHSA is is a safe and inclusive schools for trans students.

Thank you to GLSEN for sharing this important information: Trans Day of Visibility is an annual awareness day celebrated around the world. The day is dedicated to celebrating the accomplishments of transgender and gender nonconforming people while raising awareness of the work that still needs to be done to achieve trans justice.

Right now, members of school communities can take these actions to help create trans-inclusive school environments, using these resources available for download:

- Educators, use our gender terminology discussion guide and accompanying visual, plus our pronoun resource
- Students, check out our Know Your Rights guide to learn about your rights protected in school
- GSA members and advisors, check out our guide on making student clubs inclusive of trans and gender nonconforming students, as well as this GSA activity on telling trans narratives
- Advocates, use our trans model policy in your advocacy
