This Week's Special Feature Special Performance Opportunities for LIHSA Students!

We are excited to announce upcoming Winter performance opportunities for LIHSA students that will showcase their talents and melt your heart.

Venues will include the previously shared 54 Below cabaret performance as well as Adelphi University's Olmstead Theatre, Long Island Children's Museum, Cradle of Aviation, and The Paramount. Different COVID restrictions are in place for each venue, so please click here to note the dates and the specific details for each event.

Our students have been hard at work rehearsing for these performances. Here's a sneak peek.

Introducing...Jason Steinberg

We are so pleased to introduce LIHSA's newest Teacher, Jason Steinberg. LIHSA students will not only benefit from his three-decade career in multi-media journalism, photography talent, and graphic design skills, but also from his engaging personality, extensive involvement in arts and culture, perspectives from traveling the world, and unique experiences as an avid biker all around New York City.

In the Classroom:
Foley Class Learns About the Sounds That Food Make

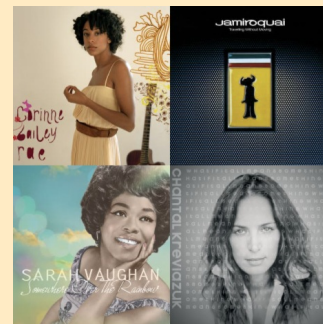

Students in our Foley Class recently had the opportunity to do just what their parents told them never to do: Play with Their Food. They crunched chips, smashed melons, and created all sorts of noises for recording purposes.

For Your Listening Pleasure

Did you ever wonder about the musical tastes of LIHSA's faculty and staff? Wonder no more.

Holidays and Other Recognition Days to Note

November 13 - 19 is Transgender Awareness Week

At LIHSA, we understand that our transgender and non-binary students often need additional support from their teachers and administrators. Every two weeks, our LGBT Task Force meets, allowing staff and faculty to look across the spectrum of students needs and work so that we can ensure that every student feels safe, heard, and supported.

November 15 is National Drummer Day
